Travel Training Trip to Little Italy!

Travelers Aid recently partnered with the Park de la Cruz Community Center to host a travel training program designed to help older adults learn how to confidently use public transportation in San Diego. Through this hands-on experience, participants learned how to navigate both the bus and trolley systems while exploring the city.

Earlier this month, a group of 14 participants traveled to Little Italy, where they had the opportunity to explore the local markets and enjoy the vibrant neighborhood. The outing not only allowed them to practice using public transportation, but also gave them a chance to get out, connect with others, and experience a new part of the city.

After spending time in Little Italy, the group successfully navigated their way back home using the bus and trolley, putting their new skills into action. It was a wonderful experience for everyone involved and an empowering step toward greater independence and confidence in using public transportation!

Meet James!

James relies on Travelers Aid as an essential support to help him get around using his PRONTO card and our other transportation services. He recently shared that the program helps him travel to doctor's appointments that are far from home and this has been especially important for getting to his cancer treatments.

He noted that he feels "very fortunate" to have access to the program and described it as "a wonderful service that has made a meaningful difference in his life." James has been connected with Travelers Aid for nine years and continues to rely on the support to reach the care he needs.
